

Identifying Collaborative Resources: A Worksheet

Name: _____ Organization: _____

Congratulations!!! You are reading this because you have likely become involved in a collaborative team dedicated to a particular issue. These teams, like coalitions, are made up of agencies or individuals working together towards a common goal. In this way, coalitions are a lot like the Justice League – an assemblage of superheroes working for the common good in hopes of making a better tomorrow.

Below are a list of resources and skills – every person is equipped with a different set of tools and abilities. Please read through the lists and put a check mark in the areas that you feel will contribute to the prevention planning process. The first list related to experience and refers to the skillsets that may be important for this state-level planning. The second related to representation and refers to your direct representation of the population or sector.

Please mark all that apply. It is our hope this chart helps us to identify the areas in which we need more representation and experience which will guide future recruitment and other efforts.

Skills / Resources	I have this skill or resource to contribute for the collaborative team efforts.	I have access to this resource or know of someone with this skill.

If you know of a resource, or a person of representation for a group or sector that you think should be invited to the coalition or reached out to in the future, please let us know who!
 Below is a space for you to write down any other skills, resources, populations, or suggestions for those to reach out to.

Thank you for your time!
